* The new Registry Act, 4 Geo. 4, c. 41, obliged the owners of all vessels to register them anew, agreeably with the 33d section of that Act. Previous to that time all ships that had been admitted to registration were presumed to exist, until evidence to the contrary was produced; and for this reason the earlier returns were always somewhat in excess.
 Note.—Goole was not established as a port until 1829. Ships built at or belonging to North and South Shields register at Newcastle, and ships built at and belonging to Seaham are registered at Stockton.
 JOHN COVEY, Register General of Shipping.
